Go Green

Strong & Durable

Our trays are reusable, microwaveable, and dishwasher safe.* You can use them again and again.

Recyclable

Polypropylene products are eligible for recycling in certain areas. Go to www.earth911.com to find an area near you that recycles PP #5 products.

Oxi-Biodegradable™

We took our environmental efforts a step further by adding a special additive to our Conserve™ trays that speeds up the degradation process. For example, a traditional plastic tray would take hundreds of years to biodegrade, and may never. However, with our Conserve™ trays, this time is significantly reduced when in direct contact with a biologically active environment (i.e. soil, landfill).

Our Conserve™ line of party trays are the perfect choice for today's environmentally-minded caterer. Made from polypropylene, they are more easily recycled than their polystyrene counterparts.

Party Bombers are the economical, fun way to serve two-part specialty drinks! Creating bomb shots the traditional way is time consuming, wasteful, and messy. Party Bombers keep the party going by eliminating the risk of spills, breaking, chipping, and over-pouring. Customers get faster service, servers are more efficient, and everyone has a fabulous time.

Plastic – It’s Greener Than You Think!

At EMI Yoshi we have a strong commitment to being environmentally responsible and we’re proud of our commitment to recyclability. Every EMI Yoshi product in this catalogue is completely reusable, disposable or recyclable.*

If you’ve heard that plastic isn’t as green as paper you’ll be interested to know that a 2011 study by the American Chemistry Council found that polystyrene cups and plates use significantly less energy and water than comparable items made from paper or corn-based polyactic acid (PLA). Among the findings were that polystyrene cups require one-half the energy from raw material to end-of-life compared to wax-coated paperboard cups.

The study also found that if paper products do not degrade after disposal, they store carbon and generate fewer greenhouse gas emissions than polystyrene products. However, if paperboard products degrade to the maximum extent, they generate more greenhouse gas emissions than polystyrene products. A separate study by the University of Arizona finds that paper makes up the biggest portion of trash – over 40% of the contents of landfills by volume (construction debris and yard waste are the runner-ups). Newspapers alone constitute about one-third of the volume of discarded paper.

But, surely, paper is biodegradable? Well, yes and no. Researchers regularly use newspapers to date garbage layers precisely because, even after several decades, they remain intact and perfectly legible. The problem is that landfills are not composters, they are mummifiers. There is biodegradation, but its pace is measured in centuries, not decades. Even organic materials, such as food scraps, remain unchanged after 30 or 40 years.

All EMI Yoshi polystyrene products can be recycled immediately where facilities exist in your community and used again in other industries. By choosing polystyrene servingware for your foodservice operation, you can conserve natural resources such as water and energy, and save on the cost of detergent and labor which are needed to sanitize non-disposable products. Whichever choice you make you can be certain that EMI Yoshi products can help you do your part to protect our environment.

Since 1973, a group of anthropologists at the University of Arizona has been conducting a series of systematic archeological digs, minutely sifting, classifying and recording the contents of more than 14 tons of excavated material. The site of their investigation has been urban landfills. The result of their work is documented in a book called "Rubbish!" and is based on an arresting premise: "That what people have owned – and thrown away – can speak more eloquently, informatively, and truthfully about the lives they lead than they themselves ever may. William Rathje, a professor of anthropology at the University of Arizona and director of the university's garbage project, and Cullen Murphy, the managing editor of The Atlantic, have written a lucid and provocative book that steers well clear of self-righteousness – and bad jokes – and takes aim at several sacred cows along the way. RUBBISH! The Archaeology of Garbage. By William Rathje and Cullen Murphy. Illustrated. 250 pp. New York: HarperCollins Publishers.
